BUILDING PAPER.

Our Building Paper is now so extensively used that it hardly needs further notice; but there are probably some who, in putting up a plain building, who do not put it, for the sake of the merits, and what a slight addition it is to the cost of a building, and that a large number is used that is required without it, nor have much may be saved by using it in various ways INSTEAD OF lumber and plastering. Every description of building may be conserved with this PAPER AND OF HERA TWO-THIRDS OF THE LABOR and subsequent cost, and the WHOLE SATISFACTION OF THE BOARDS SAVED, while the building will be VERY MUCH WARMER, because it does not absorb and let out the heat, &c. If the strength of sheathing is required, this may be put on and then common or cull boards used for strength, instead of matched flooring, and thus a great saving be made, as well as securing a much warmer house. Then, besides this, it makes the house so much warmer, that the whole cost of it is saved in a single season in the EXPENSE OF FUEL. We warrant that any one who investigates its merits can see, in a moment, will not build a frame building without it. No one has ever seen it without being convinced of its utility and economy. It costs only from eight to twenty-five or thirty dollars, according to size, to cover any ordinary house on the four sides. It is used under siding, under shingles, under floors, and instead of plastering for an inside finish. Thousands have used it and testified to its advantages and recommend all to go and do likewise. It is the most universally popular article ever brought within the reach of rich and poor for building purposes.
